COLOMBO: The Sri Lankan Navy has arrested nine Indian fishermen and seized two trawlers for allegedly poaching in the country's territorial waters, according to an official statement on Tuesday. The arrests were made near Delft Island, Jaffna. The fishermen, from Tamil Nadu, were apprehended on Monday, the Navy said. The seized trawlers together with Indian fishermen will be handed over to the Mailadi Fisheries Inspector for onward legal proceedings, it said.

GLOBAL BULLETIN

Jill Biden marks US re-entry into Unesco

PARIS: US first lady Jill Biden attended a flag-raising ceremony at Unesco in Paris on Tuesday, marking Washington's official reentry into the UN agency after a controversial five-year hiatus. The Stars and Stripes was hoisted up outside Unesco's headquarters with the Eiffel Tower on the skyline to rousing applause and a rendition of the national anthem. Before the flag-raising, Biden made remarks about the importance of American leadership in preserving cultural heritage and empowering education and science across the globe. The US exit from Unesco in 2017 cited an alleged anti-Israel bias within the organisation. The decision followed a 2011 move by Unesco to include Palestine as a member state, which led the US and Israel to cease financing the agency. The US withdrawal became official a year later in 2018.

SA: 77 injured after buses collide

JOHANNESBURG: At least 77 people were injured, five of them critically, after two buses collided at the entrance to a South African university on Tuesday, police and transport authorities said. One of the buses was a university vehicle ferrying students between campuses at the University of Johannesburg. The other was a city bus. Metro Bus spokesperson Goodwill Shiburi said that five people suffered critical injuries in the crash, and all 77 of the injured were hospitalised. Both drivers were among those taken to the hospital, he said.

Chicago boy fires shot at cops

CHICAGO: A 10-year-old boy fired a shot at Chicago police officers during a standoff with officers called to the scene after the youth opened fire inside a home, police said. No one was injured in Monday's shooting and the boy was taken to a hospital for observation, police said. Officers responded to a home in Chicago's Beverly neighbourhood about 11:20 am after learning the boy had fired shots inside the residence and was experiencing "mental distress", police said in a statement.

Wildfires kill 34 in Algeria as heatwave sweeps North Africa

API / Algiers

Fires raging through forests, mountain villages and towns in northern Algeria have left at least 34 people dead - with 23 of them in the coastal region of Bejaia, according to authorities and a local radio station keeping track of the grim toll in Bejaia.

Among those killed were 10 soldiers encircled by flames during an evacuation, the Defense Ministry reported on Monday night. Bejaia, part of the Berber-speaking Kabyle region east of Algiers, was the hardest-hit area, with 23 deaths since Sunday, the local Soummam Radio reported on Tuesday. Counting the deaths from the wind-driven blazes that swept through villages to the seaside, the radio report said that 197 other people were injured in the flames. The official APS news agency reported on Monday night that 34 people had died across several regions, or "wilayas."

Some 8,000 firefighters and 530 trucks, backed by military fire-fighting aircraft, fought the blazes in scorching heat, according to the latest update.

The Algerian Defence Ministry said on Monday night that 10 soldiers died in the hardest-hit region of Bejaia. It added that 25 people were injured and evacuated to the closest hospitals.

Summer wildfires in this North African nation have taken heavy tolls in recent years. At least 37 people were killed last August after wildfires blazed near Algeria's northern border with Tunisia. A year earlier, at least 42 people were killed in

Docs strike against judicial reform bill

AP / Jerusalem

Thousands of Israeli doctors walked out of work, labour leaders threatened a general strike and senior justices rushed home from a trip abroad Tuesday, a day after the government approved a law weakening the country's supreme court that critics say will erode the system of checks and balances.

Four leading Israeli newspapers covered their front pages in black ink - an ominous image paid for by an alliance of high-tech companies.

The only words on the pages were in a line at the bottom: "A black day for Israeli democracy." Monday's vote - on the first of a series of measures that make up Prime Minister Benjamin Netanyahu's divisive judicial overhaul - reverberated across the country.

It came despite seven months of fierce popular resistance, Netanyahu's promises of an eventual compromise and a rare warning against the overhaul from Israel's closest ally, the United States.

The bill was unanimously passed by the governing coalition, which includes ultra-nationalist and ultra-religious parties, after the opposition stormed out of the hall shouting "Shame!" But opponents say they are not done fighting it: Civil rights groups submitted petitions to the Supreme Court, calling for the new law to be overturned, and protests rolled the country's streets overnight.

Hundreds of thousands of people fanned out in Tel Aviv, burning tires, setting off fireworks and waving national flags.

In central Jerusalem, police mounted on horses unleashed water cannons and a foul-smelling spray at protesters, arresting nearly 40 people. At least 10 officers were assaulted and injured, they said.

Israel is now hurtling into uncharted territory against the specter of further social and political unrest.

blazes - including 25 soldiers called in to help fight the fires in the mountainous Kabyle region that is dotted with villages.

Strong winds and successive heat waves have fueled vicious fires in Greece and elsewhere around the Mediterranean this summer.

The Algerian online news site TSA quoted the National Meteorological Office as saying that temperatures that soared to around 50 C (122 F) in some of the fire-hit regions were expected to drop starting Tuesday.

Firefighter plane crashes in Greece with two aboard

AP / Rhodes

A third successive heat wave in Greece pushed temperatures back above 40 C (104 F) across parts of the country on Tuesday following more night-time evacuations from fires that have raged out of control for days.

The latest evacuations orders were issued on the islands of Corfu and Evia, while a blaze on the island of Rhodes continued to move inland, torching mountainous forest areas.

Desperate residents, many with wet towels around their necks to stave off the scorching heat, used shovels to beat back flames approaching their homes.
